View to the left of Garmin eTrex 20x (left), 22x (centre) and 32x (right). The Garmin eTrex 20x is a 2020 model, while the Garmin eTrex 22x and 32x are 2021 models. eTrex 22x and 32x are updated versions of eTrex 20x and 30x respectively. When it comes to features, eTrex 20x and 22x are similar, but the latter has more internal memory (3.7GB vs 8GB) and has already loaded the maps Garmin TopoActive. In addition, the two are essentially the same model. The Garmin eTrex 32x is a much more advanced model of eTrex 20x and 22x. It has 8GB internal memory, it is equipped with maps of Garmin TopoActive already loaded and its distinguishing features are barometric altimeter, 3-axis electronic compass and wireless connectivity (ANT+). Its barometric altimeter and Three-axis electronics allow eTrex 32x to have a faster and faster processing speedto the device à total accuracy. These sensors are usually found in more expensive GPS units and having these features at this price point makes eTrex 32x a good value for money. Its ANT+ connectivity is also a nice added feature, which allows you to exchange data (trace, tracks etc.) with other Garmin devices with which it is compatible. Ease of UseThe Garmin eTrex 20x, 22x and 32x have the same layout, but eTrex 22x and 32x are equipped with pre-loaded Garmin TopoActive maps. On the back, all three handheld GPS devices have an inch screw, which also doubles as a mounting attachment, to easily access their battery. One of the reasons for the popularity of the Garmin eTrex line of handheld GPS units is that they are simple and easy to use. On the face of the devices there is a joystick that can be used for scrolling and navigation, and on the sides are five buttons for power/light, menu, back-up/down functions. Having buttons instead of a touch interface is an advantage for those who need to wear gloves during their outdoor adventures. When it comes to the menu layout, the eTrex line has the same layout as other Garmin devices. If youâre looking to get a basic handheld GPS, the Garmin eTrex 22x is a good option. It is recommended to get the eTrex 22x over the eTrex 20x as the former is an updated version of the latter that comes with more internal memory and preloaded TopoActive maps at almost the same price. If you want a more advanced portable GPS device that offers better value for money, we recommend getting the Garmin eTrex 32x instead. It has all the features of the eTrex 22x and is equipped with a barometric altimeter and a 3-axis compass electronic sensor. The two mentioned features certainly deserve to be paid for as they improve the device's accuracy and speed.
