Ancient religions timeline

The Viking ages was a period of remarkable religious change in Scandinavia. Part of the popular image of the Vikings is that they were all pagans, with a hatred of the Christian Church, but this vision is very misleading. It is true that almost all the population of Scandinavia was pagan at the beginning of the Viking Etâ, but the Vikings had many of them, and it was not a problem for them to accept the Christian God beside them. Most scholars today believe that Viking attacks on Christian churches had nothing to do with religion, but more to do with the fact that the monasteries were generally rich and badly defended, making them an easy target for Placing. The Vikings have come into contact with Christianity through their RAIDs, and when they settled in lands with a Christian population, they adopted Christianity quite quickly. This was true in Normandy, Ireland and in all British islands. Although contemporary accounts say little about this, we can see it in archaeological trials. The pagans buried their dead with serious goods, but Christians normally did not make him, and this makes him relatively easy to identify change in religion. In addition to conversion abroad, Viking's age also saw a gradual conversion to Scandinavia itself, while Anglo-Saxon and the German missionaries arrived â €
