A custom thematic file does two things: import the mat-core () Mixin sass. The angular material will allow us of primary, accent and warning colors that will be used on Angular Material components as an attribute .which will resultAngular Material comes with several pre-built themes css files as listed below .Available pre-built themes:deep-purple-amber,cssindigo-pink,csspink-bluegrey,csspurple-green.These theme files also include all of the styles for core (styles common to all components), so you only have to include a single css file for Angular Material in your app.Three ways of including the pre-built theme css files1) Include a theme file directly into your application from @angular/material/prebuilt-themes2) If you're using Angular CLI, this is as simple as including one line in your styles.css file3) You can just reference the file directly. This object can be created with either the mat-light-theme function or the mat-dark-theme function. There will be no surprise of our theme change because of the css class that's been set now. Find below the screenshots FYR after theming our angular appDefault ThemeThe below screenshot has been captured while changing the themeChanging theme in UIBelow is the screenshot captured after applying our new themeNew theme changeClick here for DemoClick here for source code.Comments and thoughts: Always welcome! (: Happy Coding :) In this case, applying two or more class definitions to an element. File extension is .AAAO sass eAAA It uses indentations to specify block. Im sure the below explanation will also help to add custom theme to the existing angular application as well.
