What is the Elecranon Bursa? The bone tip of the elbow is called olecranon. Directly above is a bag full of liquid that helps prevent damage to the bone tip. The bags are found throughout the body, often where joints are found. These liquid-filled bags help prevent friction between soft tissues, such as ligaments, and bone itself. The small part of extra skin that you can feel when extending the arm completely is olecranon skin, because of its location. What are the problems affecting Olecranon and its skin? One of the most common problems with olecranon skin is dryness or rash. Since bags can often become irritated or inflamed due to too friction, common problems to the olecranon bag include elbow bursitis, also known as the miner elbow. This part of the elbow can also suffer from gout. Other common problems of the elbow not related to the olecrano are not elbow tennis or cubic tunnel syndrome. What are the causes of the dry skin of the elbow? Having the dry skin of olecrano is very common, especially in winter. It could just be a case of dry skin. You can also use soap that is drying the skin. Furthermore, chlorine can be a cause of dry skin if you are a swimmer, especially elbow. Skin diseases such as psoriasis or eczema may also cause olecranon dry skin. How is it the dry skin of the elbow? The best way to treat the dry skin of the elbow is to find out what is causing the problem. Of course, many people have dry skin in winter. Change your shower soap or body wash if it seems to cause dryness. Moreover, hydration is essential. Look for a moisturizing cream that has a base of cocoa butter, olive oil, oil jelly, or coconut oil. If you realize that dryness persists even after the hydration of the area, it is a good idea to contact your doctor or dermatologist. What can cause Goutto Rash? Herpetiform dermatitis is a common reason for a rash around the elbow, especially around the olecranon skin. In addition to the elbow, you can also see a rash around your knees, scalp, back, or buttocks. A rash may have many different causes and should immediately contact your doctor if you notice this level of skin irritation. In particular, herpetiform dermatitis occurs due to gluten intolerance. However, it is different from the celiac. If there is a diagnosis of herpetiform dermatitis, the first-line treatment is to stick to a gluten-free diet. A What is Elbow Borsite Elbow Borsite Elbow is caused by irritation or inflammation of the olecranon bag. This can be caused by several factors, such as trauma, infection, pressure or gout. Symptoms of this condition include swelling and touch pain. The area can also be hot, red, or Most of the time, a doctor would recommend a change in physical activity as well as anti-inflammatory drugs to relieve pain. ache.
