Correct answer: Hewlett -Packard on Wednesday introduced a new notebook Presario Widescreen, catering for business travelers of the DVD-carrying. The Compaq Presario WideScreen Notebook X1000 PC PC, available in June for an estimated price of $ 1,299 after a refund of $100 email, is equipped with a display of large proportions of 15.4 inches high resolution that can produce images up to wuxga or 1,920 x 1,200 pixel resolutions. The notebook is powered by the Aty Mobility Radeon 9200 graphic chip with 64 Mbyte integrated memory and a Pentium m processor with the speed option ranging from 1.3 to 1.6 GHz. The X1000 notebook is shipped with an integrated 802.11b wireless network card and an optional Bluetooth module; Expansion options include a secure digital card slot and an IEEE 1394 connection. The X1000 integrates Ethernet 10/100 and a 56K modem and an eight-cell lithium-ion battery that can provide up to a total of 5 hours of battery life. Additional options include: hard drives of 40 GB, 60 GB or 80 GB and a choice of 60 GB high performance drive (5,400 rpm/min) 60 GB of optical drives, including 24x CD-ROM, 8x DVD, 24x CD-RW/DVD or DVD + RW up to 2 GB DDR (266-MHz) Memory System Hewlett-Packard Co. will allow customers of its Pavilion PC and HP, Palo Alto, California., It is going to what is known as supply chain, building and building products worldwide from a location in Taiwan via Federal Express. The idea is to simplify the production process of HP, pass configurability and cost savings on consumers. "This model pulls a lot of costs from the process, "E" said Jim Burns, director of supply chain operations worldwide to HP, Palo Alto, California. A € "We can bypass the steps used in the supply chain through HPâ€¦ | reminds all costsmanagement. You pay for yourself. A, â, ~ â Adding, offers customers additional purchase options. A € â, ~ â, ~ Burns continued. A € â, ~ "They don't want to don't want to work like the largest display, or don't want the biggest hard drive." Online sellers like Dell Computer Corp. Corp. offer this degree of flexibility in their notebooks. But HP, who said that Burns said the "chain supplying offers in the business", â€ hopes to develop the process so that individual components can be changed, such as inclusion of different types of pointing devices. HP competes With its fusion partner, Compaq Computer Corp., retail, and also designs to adapt the program to the channel. Buyers will still have the opportunity to buy a finished notebook from the shelf. However, HP is installing kiosks in retailers, including the best purchase, Circuit City, Office Depot, Office Max and Staples, and allowing users to configure and purchase notebooks directly from stores. The final delivery can be either at a customer's house or at the dealer himself, burning himself. The arrangement is to benefit from the dealer, said Burns. â€ "Tello to carry inventory, â€ Burns said, even more true from the recent decision of clips to delete PCs from its store shelves. The program is currently rolling out the business stores of the HP Site and will live on its consumer site, HPshopping.com, next week.
